

Boston Scientific Announces Sale of Cardiac Surgery and Vascular Surgery Businesses

PRNewswire-FirstCall
NATICK, Mass.
(NYSE:BSX)

NATICK, Mass., Nov. 5 PRNewswire-FirstCall/ -- Boston Scientific Corporation (NYSE: BSX) today announced the signing of a definitive agreement for the sale of its Cardiac Surgery and Vascular Surgery businesses to the Getinge Group, a global provider of healthcare equipment and systems. The transaction will be for a cash price of $750 million and is expected to close within the next 45-90 days, subject to regulatory approvals and customary conditions. The Company announced its intent to sell the Cardiac Surgery and Vascular Surgery businesses on August 16, as part of its plan to divest non- strategic assets and increase shareholder value.

Boston Scientific acquired the Cardiac Surgery business in April 2006 as part of the Guidant transaction. The Cardiac Surgery business is a leading developer of medical technologies designed for use in surgical cardiac procedures, including beating-heart bypass surgery systems and endoscopic vessel harvesting for coronary bypass surgery. The business employs approximately 450 people. Boston Scientific acquired the Vascular Surgery business in 1995. The Vascular Surgery business develops synthetic grafts and patches used to surgically treat vascular disease, including the repair of abdominal aortic aneurysms and peripheral vascular anatomy. The business has approximately 250 employees. The combined revenues of the two businesses in 2006 were approximately $275 million.

"Working with the talented employees of the Cardiac Surgery and Vascular Surgery businesses, our goal is to drive growth and bring new technologies to these markets, ultimately benefiting cardiac and vascular surgeons and their patients," said Johan Malmquist, President and Chief Executive Officer of the Getinge Group of Stockholm, Sweden. "We are excited to complement our existing portfolio with these valuable businesses, each of which brings leading market positions and impressive product lines."

"This transaction completes a previously announced element of our plan to divest non-strategic assets, focus on our core businesses and increase shareholder value," said Jim Tobin, President and Chief Executive Officer of Boston Scientific. "We deeply appreciate the contributions our Cardiac Surgery and Vascular Surgery employees have made to Boston Scientific, our customers and their patients. We know they will continue to serve customers and patients well going forward."

Boston Scientific is a worldwide developer, manufacturer and marketer of medical devices whose products are used in a broad range of interventional medical specialties. For more information, please visit: <http://www.bostonscientific.com/>.

The Getinge Group is a leading global provider of equipment and systems to customers within health care, extended care and pharmaceutical industries/laboratories. The Group reported pro forma revenues of approximately $2.2 billion in 2006. The Group comprises three business areas: Medical Systems (systems for surgery and intensive care), Infection Control (system equipment for disinfection and sterilization) and Extended Care (care ergonomics). The Group currently maintains leading positions within the majority of the company's product lines.
