

Federal Judge Rules on Motions

PRNewswire-FirstCall
Natick, Mass.
(NYSE:BSX)

Natick, Mass., March 27 PRNewswire-FirstCall/ -- Boston Scientific Corporation (NYSE: BSX) announced today that a U.S. District Court judge in Delaware has denied the Company's motion to overturn a jury verdict that the NIR® stent infringes a Johnson & Johnson patent. The NIR stent, designed and manufactured by Medinol Ltd., was formerly sold by Boston Scientific. Boston Scientific plans to appeal the judgment of the District Court.

The judge also denied Johnson & Johnson's motion to reinstate a prior damages verdict and ruled that the issue of damages will be deferred until after all liability issues are determined through appeal.

Forward Looking Statements

This press release contains "forward-looking statements," including, among other statements, statements regarding the proposed business combination between Boston Scientific Corporation and Guidant Corporation, and the anticipated consequences and benefits of such transaction. Statements made in the future tense, and words such as "anticipate", "expect", "project", "believe", "plan", "estimate", "intend", "will", "may" and similar expressions are intended to identify forward-looking statements. These statements are based on current expectations but are subject to certain risks and uncertainties, many of which are difficult to predict and are beyond the control of Boston Scientific or Guidant. Relevant risks and uncertainties include those referenced in Boston Scientific's and Guidant's filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") (which can be obtained as described in "Additional Information" below), and include: general industry conditions and competition; economic conditions, such as interest rate and currency exchange rate fluctuations; technological advances and patents attained by competitors; challenges inherent in new product development, including obtaining regulatory approvals; domestic and foreign health care reforms and governmental laws and regulations; and trends toward health care cost containment. Risks and uncertainties relating to the proposed transaction include: required regulatory approvals will not be obtained in a timely manner, if at all; the proposed transaction will not be consummated; the anticipated benefits of the proposed transaction will not be realized; and the integration of Guidant's operations with Boston Scientific will be materially delayed or will be more costly or difficult than expected. These risks and uncertainties could cause actual results to differ materially from those expressed in or implied by the forward-looking statements, and therefore should be carefully considered. Neither Boston Scientific nor Guidant assumes any obligation to update any forward-looking statements as a result of new information or future events or developments.
