NATICK, Mass., March 23 /PRNewswire-FirstCall/ -- Boston Scientific Corporation (NYSE: BSX) today announced that it has made certain commitments to the Directorate-General for Competition of the European Commission as part of the European Commission's antitrust review of Boston Scientific's merger with Guidant Corporation (NYSE: GDT).

Details of the commitments are currently confidential, but will become public when the European Commission completes its review and announces its decision.

During European Commission reviews of proposed acquisitions, companies often make commitments to resolve potential antitrust issues identified by the European Commission. The existence of commitments extends the typical five-week European Commission review period to up to seven weeks, which means that the European Commission review of the Boston Scientific-Guidant transaction will now formally conclude no later than April 13, 2006. However, the European Commission may conclude its review and issue its decision before that date. Boston Scientific's goal is still to close the transaction during the first week of April.

Boston Scientific noted that its commitments are not material to the Guidant transaction.

On January 25, 2006, Boston Scientific and Guidant announced that they had entered into a merger agreement, under which Boston Scientific will acquire all the outstanding shares of Guidant for a combination of cash and stock worth $80 per Guidant share, or approximately $27 billion in aggregate. Guidant shareholders will receive an additional $0.0132 in cash per Guidant share for each day beginning on April 1, 2006 through the closing date of the merger. Boston Scientific has also entered into an agreement with Abbott under which Abbott will acquire Guidant's vascular intervention and endovascular businesses, while agreeing to share rights to Guidant's drug-eluting stent program with Boston Scientific.
